

LiveAnswerReceptionist.Com

Contributed by Blanche Scharf
Thursday, 07 August 2008

I consider this a business tool for any company that is looking for a professional image. In the age of fly by night contractors, sales companies, construction companies, and home improvement companies, people have lost confidence in being able to find reputable companies.

This is a live answering receptionist, not a prompter with a whole list of extensions, and a long hold time. First impressions are everything, and you only get one chance at that. Customers prefer to talk to a person, rather than leave a message.

When a customer calls and cannot get through, or they are greeted by voice mail it looks and acts like a home business. One of the misconceptions is that Live Answer Receptionist is used by mainly white collar businesses.

This is the age of technology and competition is heating up in most fields, so isn't time to integrate reassuring support for your potential customer, LiveAnswerReceptionist.com is a visionary company that can take your business to the next level.